FROM THE FATHERS

“WHY do you fear to confess your sins to our good Lord? ‘Set them forth,’ He says, ‘that you may be justified.’ The rewards of justification are set before him who is still guilty of sin, for he is justified who voluntarily confesses his own sin; and lastly, ‘the just man is his own accuser in the beginning of his speaking.’ (Prov 18:17) The Lord knows all things, but He waits for your words, not that He may punish, but that He may pardon. It is not His will that the devil should triumph over you and accuse you when you conceal your sins. Be beforehand with your accuser: if you accuse yourself, you will fear no accuser; if you report yourself, though you were dead you shall live.”

St. Ambrose of Milan + AD 397

“‘BUT these three abide, Faith, Hope, Love. But the greatest of these is Love.’ And rightly. For Faith departs when we are convinced by vision, by seeing God. And Hope vanishes when the things hoped for come. But Love comes to completion, and grows more when that which is perfect has been bestowed. If one introduces it into his soul, although he be born in sins, and has done many forbidden things, he is able, by increasing love, and adopting a pure repentance, to retrieve his mistakes..”

St. Clement of Alexandria + c. AD 215

“REPENTANCE which is true and truly from the heart persuades the penitent not to sin any more, not to mix with corrupt people, and not to gape in curiosity at evil pleasures, but to despise things present, cling to things to come, struggle against passions, seek after virtues, be self-controlled in every respect, keep vigil with prayers to God, and shun dishonest gain. It convinces him to be merciful to those who wrong him, gracious to those who ask something of him, ready with all his heart to bend down and help in any way he can, whether by words, actions or money, all who seek his assistance, that through kindness to his fellow-man he might gain God's love in return for loving his neighbour, draw the Divine favour to himself, and attain to eternal mercy and God's everlasting blessing and grace.”

St. Gregory Palamas + c. AD 1359

Fasting Guidelines:

On days designated strict fast we abstain from dairy products, meat, fish, oil and wine. Some seafoods, e.g. squid, crab, roe and prawn, are permitted.
